Rural Marketing Trip VII Semester

The BBA VII semester students with a specialization in Rural Marketing went on an educational tour to Balthali on New Year's Eve (31st December 2022). The purpose of the tour was to study and analyze the rural market and scrutinize the demands and behavior of rural consumers in Balthali. The students got to interact with the locals and conduct surveys for their project. They also got the opportunity to taste the locally grown and produced oranges, which were very famous in Balthali. The lifestyle of the people in Balthali was quite different from city people as they were busy with farming and local retail business.

The consumers preferred duplicate products as they were cheaper than the original ones. The tour was led by the faculty of Rural Marketing, Mr. Birat Shrestha, and a total of 21 students participated. The experience was not just enlightening but also enjoyable and memorable for the students.

Sociology Trip BBA-BI Sem II

Nestled amidst the picturesque landscapes of Kavrepalanchok district, just a stone's throw away from the bustling capital city of Kathmandu, lies the charming Balthali Village. This article presents a comprehensive survey conducted in Balthali Village:

The objective of this report is to understand how technology is affecting the adolescents population in Balthali.

The trip was also aimed to gather data on their usage patterns and the effects it has on their physical and mental health, social life, and academic performance. The trip was also aimed to examine the role of parents, educators, and other stake- holders in managing the use of technology among adolescents. The methodology used in this study involved both qualitative and quantitative data collection methods.

Surveys were conducted and interviews with adolescents, parents, and educators, as well as observation of technology use in the community. The study was conducted on 8th February 2023, and we collected data from 10 respondents.

The study showed that adolescents in Balthali are exposed to various types of technology, including smartphones, laptops, and social media platforms. The results showed that the use of technology had both positive and negative effects on adolescents. On the positive side, technology provides adolescents with a platform to explore their interests, communicate with friends and family, and access information.

However, on the negative side, technology overuse can lead to physical health problems, poor academic performance, and social isolation. The study concludes that while technology is an essential aspect of modern life, adolescents must be taught how to use it responsibly to avoid negative effects.

My ABC Trek Experience

My friends, teachers, and I had an amazing time on the ABC trek with our Sherpa guides. We hiked through stunning forests, marveled at breathtaking waterfalls, and went to authentic Nepalese villages. Our group's solidarity grew as we traveled through dense rhododendron forests, cascading waterfalls, and traditional Nepalese villages. We were inspired to face each challenge along the way by the shared jokes, tales, and laughter.

Being with my friends and laughing and supporting one another was so much fun. Our teachers were extremely knowledgeable and gave us fascinating lessons about the local flora, fauna, and culture. They made the journey interesting and educational. The Sherpa tour guides were also excellent. They looked after us like family and kept us safe. They were familiar with the mountains and took care of our comfort the entire way.

It was breathtaking when we finally arrived at the Annapurna Base Camp. Huge snow-capped mountains encircled us, and the scene seemed surreal. We were so pleased with ourselves for reaching the top. The ABC trek was more than just a physical hardship; it also provided us with invaluable lessons in cooperation, fortitude, and the wonders of nature. We became closer as a result of the experience, and we made unforgettable memories.
